DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on March 26, 2001 is being considered by the examiner.

Drawings

The drawings filed on December 21, 2000 are acceptable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The method claims as presented do not claim a technological basis in the body of the claim. Without a claimed basis, the claim may be interpreted in an alternative as involving no more than a manipulation of an abstract idea and therefore non-statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101. In contrast, a method claim that includes in the body of the claim at least one structural/functional interrelationship is considered to have a technological basis. All that is necessary to make a sequence of operations steps a statutory process within 35 U.S.C. 101 is that it be in the technological arts so as to be in consonance with the Constitutional purpose to promote the progress of "useful arts" In re Musgrave, 431 F.2d 882, 167 USPQ 280 (CCPA 1970).

To overcome this rejection the Examiner recommends the Applicant amend the claims to better clarify which of the steps are being performed within the technological arts, such as "simultaneously displaying at a computer network, using a single screen image, a plurality of different items offer for auction".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 9-12, 15-17, 25-28, 31-33, 41-44, and 47-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,647,373 to Carlton-Foss.

Regarding claims 1, 17, and 33, Carlton-Foss discloses an electronic auction method, system, and computer-readable medium comprising the steps of:

- simultaneously displaying, using a single screen image, a plurality of different items offered for auction (see at least col. 3, lines 20-23; col. 5, lines 64-66; col. 6, lines 38-40; Figures 4a-4b; col. 3, lines 61-67);
- permitting entry of a different bid for each of a plurality of the plurality of different items using the single screen image (see at least col. 3, lines 23-26; col. 6, lines 3-4; col. 6, lines 21-23; col. 6, lines 3-40; Figures 4a-4b; Figure 5; col. 3, lines 61-67); and
- simultaneously submitting the bid for each of the plurality of the plurality of different items from the single screen image (see at least col. 3, lines 30-37; col.

6, lines 10-13; col. 6, lines 21-23; col. 6, lines 38-40; Figures 4a-4b; Figure 5; col. 3, lines 61-67).

Regarding claims 9-10, 25-26, and 41-42, Carlton-Foss discloses receiving the different bid for each of the plurality of the plurality different items using the single screen image (see at least col. 3, lines 30-37; col. 6, lines 10-13; col. 6, lines 21-23; col. 6, lines 38-40; Figures 4a-4b; Figure 5); simultaneously displaying a confirmation for the different bid for each of the plurality of different items using a second single screen image (see at least col. 6, line 54 –col. 7, line 4); and simultaneously submitting a different bid for each one of a first plurality of the plurality of different items and submitting a modification for a each one of a second plurality of the plurality of different items (see at least col. 5, lines 24-31; col. 6, lines 21-25; col. 6, lines 41-46; col. 3, lines 61-67).

Regarding claims 11-12, 27-28, and 43-44, Carlton-Foss discloses the step of simultaneously submitting a different bid for each one of a first plurality of the plurality of different items and canceling each one of a second plurality of the plurality of different items; and the step of simultaneously submitting a different bid for each one of a first plurality of the plurality of different items and revising each one of a second plurality of the plurality of different items (see at least col. 9, lines 11-42).

Regarding claims 15-16, 31-32, and 47-48, Carlton-Foss discloses simultaneously displaying, using the single screen image, a plurality of different offerings offered for auction, wherein an offering includes one or more items (see at least col. 3, lines 20-23; col. 5, lines 64-66; col. 6, lines 38-40; Figures 4a-4b; col. 6, line 66 – col. 7, line 4); selecting a plurality of the plurality of different offerings to display to a particular user (see at least col. 3, lines 23-26; col. 6, lines 3-4; col. 6, lines 21-23; col. 6, lines 3-40; Figures 4a-4b; Figure 5; col. 6, line 66 – col. 7, line 4; col. 3, lines 61-67); and simultaneously displaying , using the single screen image, only the plurality of the plurality of different offerings (see at least col. 6, lines 21-23; col. 6, lines 3-40; Figures 4a-4b; col. 3, lines 61-67).

Art Unit: 3625

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-8, 13-14, 18-24, 29-30, 34-40, and 45-46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 6,647,373 to Carlton-Foss in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,415,270 to Rackson et al.

Regarding claims 2-8, 18-24, and 34-40, Carlton-Foss substantially discloses the claimed invention, however, Carlton-Foss does not disclose the plurality of auction types such as interactive auction, single auction, and priced auction. Carlton-Foss discloses a bidding means for submitting proposals (col. 3, lines 23-26) and an evaluation means for ranking bids received (col. 3, lines 34-36). Furthermore, Carlton-Foss discloses a Display System that displayed selected information from the request database and the bid database to appropriate requestors and bidders so that the bidders are encouraged to compete in an open marketplace and the requestors may witness the bidding and alter the environment of that bidding before and during the time of the competitive bidding process (col. 3, lines 61-67). Rackson, on the other hand, teaches the auction types (see at least col. 9, lines 25-35; col. 10, lines 60-63; col. 11, lines 2-32).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the electronic auction method, system, and computer-readable medium of Carlton-Foss, to include the auction types, as taught by Rackson, in order to provide an optimized method for a bidder to have the multi-auction service place coordinated bids at one or more of a plurality of networked remote auction services for a bidder to enable him to purchase those items at the optimal or lowest prices from the point of view of the bidder (Rackson col. 6, lines 25-30).

Regarding claims 13-14, 29-30, and 45-46, Carlton-Foss substantially discloses the claimed invention, however, the Carlton-Foss does not disclose the proxy. Carlton-Foss discloses a submitter which is the bidder or the entity the bidder represents (col. 9, lines 19-21). Rackson, on the other hand, discloses the proxy (see at least col. 14, lines 17-29; col. 14, lines 50-58).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the electronic auction method, system, and computer-readable medium of Carlton-Foss, to include the proxy, as taught by Rackson, to allow bids to be placed on the various remote auction services (Rackson col. 14, lines 28-29), thus, to provide an optimized method for a bidder to have the multi-auction service place coordinated bids at one or more of a plurality of networked remote auction services for a bidder to enable him to purchase those items at the optimal or lowest prices from the point of view of the bidder (Rackson col. 6, lines 25-30).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U.S. Patent No. 6,182,116 to Namma et al. discloses a virtual WWW server for enabling a single display screen.

U.S. Patent No. 6,405,221 to Levine et al. discloses a method and apparatus for creating the appearance of multiple embedded pages of information in a single web browser display.

U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0007338 A1 to Do discloses a method and apparatus for conducting bidding sessions in various modes to arrive at the highest or lowest price.

Canadian Patent No. 2,136,155 to Ameline et al. discloses a user Interface for browsing multidimensional objects in a single window.

WWW.AUCTIONWATCH.COM discloses an auction management system that manages all auction activity from one place.
